These elegant antique demilune side tables were created in France circa 1920. Built of oak, each table stands on four turned legs ending with bun feet, and connected with a sturdy stretcher at the bottom. The surface is dressed with a half moon shape top, embellished with ogee edges, over an arched apron. The occasional tables are in excellent condition commensurate with age and use, and adorn a rich walnut patina. Versatile, they could be used as small tables holding a plant, or occasional seating as counter stools in a kitchen nook. Measures: 15.75" W x 12" D x 26" H.
