Decorate your fireplace hearth with this elegant pair of antique chenets. Crafted in France circa 1860, and built of bronze, each andiron features a cherubic figure seated atop an ornate pedestal. The cherubs are depicted in dynamic poses: one holding a lyre, symbolizing music, and the other poised with a tool or wand, suggesting creativity or craftsmanship. These figures sit amidst flowing, curved motifs typical of Rococo design, characterized by elaborate scrolls, swirling foliage, and openwork details that lend an airy elegance to the pieces. The gilt-toned finish enhances the luxurious feel, adding to their decorative appeal. The Louis XV Rococo fireplace essentials are in excellent condition, and adorn a beautiful patinated gilt bronze finish. These chenets beautifully combine art and utility, embodying opulence and historical charm. Measures: 18" W x 9" D x 15" H.
